DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) filed 9/22/03 has not been considered because JP 2002-75455 has already been considered in the IDS filed 5/24/04. The reference US 5,498,489 listed in the IDS filed 5/24/04 has not been considered because it was already considered in the IDS filed 11/2/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, 5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP-2002-075455 hereinafter Uchino.

Uchino teaches a stacked lithium ion secondary battery comprising sheet electrodes including a collector and a polymer electrolyte positioned between the electrodes which are located on the outermost layers in such a manner so that the collectors are exposed to the outside and function as terminals, wherein said stacked lithium ion secondary battery is a plurality of batteries connected in series and said stacked battery is used in a vehicle (abstract, paragraphs [0002] and [0007]-[0011]).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 2, 3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Uchino in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,618,641 hereinafter Arias.

Uchino teaches everything in the above 102 rejection as well as that the positive active material includes a composite oxide of lithium and a transition metal and the negative active material includes any one of a carbon and the composite oxide of lithium and transition metal (paragraphs [0019] and [0020]).

Uchino does not explicitly teach bipolar electrodes or that the stacked batteries can be arranged in parallel.

Arias teaches a bipolar battery construction having stacked batteries that can be arranged in series or parallel (abstract and column 1, lines 28-29).

Art Unit: 1745

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include the teaching of the Arias reference in the Uchino reference in order to provide a stacked battery configuration that would be more compact by replacing the electrodes of Uchino with bipolar electrodes which are well known in the art and also arranging the stacked batteries either in series or parallel in order to achieve the desired voltage and current output for the application at hand.
